Authorship and Historical Context

The book of Daniel is traditionally attributed to the prophet Daniel, who is believed to have lived during the Babylonian captivity in the 6th century B.C. However, modern scholarship suggests that the book was likely written by multiple authors over a longer period of time. The historical context of the book is significant, as it reflects the political and religious tensions between the Jewish people and their Babylonian and Persian rulers.

Structure and Content

The book of Daniel is divided into two distinct sections: historical narratives (chapters 1-6) and apocalyptic visions (chapters 7-12). The historical narratives recount the experiences of Daniel and his companions in the Babylonian court. The apocalyptic visions, on the other hand, present a series of vivid and symbolic prophecies concerning the future of Israel and the world.
